

ABSTRACT

Hays Building
26-30 West Washington Street
Hagerstown
Washington County

circa 1905-1906

The Hays Building is representative of the Renaissance Revival form of commercial architecture popular in the early twentieth century. By far one of the best examples of the style in Hagerstown, the Hays Building is particularly interesting for the decorative detailing of the upper two levels of the facade, especially the elaborately bordered cartouche bearing the initial "H."

The Hays Building was erected for the Hays firm, a business specializing in stationery and book supplies. The Hays family purchased the property in June, 1905.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE
The Hays Building is located at 26-30 West Washington Street in Hagerstown, Washington County, and stands on the north side of the street in the eastern half of the block formed by Public Square and Jonathan Street. The building is a circa 1905-1906 masonry commercial structure, Renaissance Revival in style and three stories in height. The decorative detailing is concentrated on the street facade (south side) and along about one bay of the west side, which is open to view because of an alley. The second and third floor levels of the facade are built of brick with stone trim and appear to be original in condition. The street level has a mid-twentieth century store front with glazed tile panels. The name "Hays Inc." is inscribed in the panels above the recessed center doors. The facade is crowned by a heavy cornice and is sectioned into three window divisions. The central bay of each floor is covered with stone tiles and has a tripartite window with transoms. The second floor window has a segmental pediment with a foliated panel supported by foliated brackets. The third floor tripartite window has a wide surround with dogears or crossetts. The windows in the outer bays have double-hung wooden sashes with one-over-one lights and one pane transoms. The second story outer bay windows have brick flat arches with stone keystones. The cornice rests on fluted, flat pilasters of the Greek Ionic order, one at each end of the front. Above the cornice is a closed brick balustrade with a Baroque style cartouche elaborately bordered with foliated swags and curvilinear decoration. The convex field of the oval panel of the cartouche bears a large letter "H" in bas-relief sculpture.

5. Description of physical appearance:

The three story Hays building stands on the north side of West Washington Street facing south. The main facade presents a glass and aluminum store front currently missing the leaded glass band above the store fronts. The second and third stories exhibit stylistic embellishments of the neoclassical style. The area above the store front has a concrete ledge upon which stand the corner pilasters representing Greek Ionic columns. Three windows are evenly spaced across the front at each level. The center window group has an arched surround on the second floor and an "18th century dog ear" surround on the third floor. The interior on each floor is clear span and open. Plaster walls and wood trim around the windows. The 1st floor was remodeled in 1984.

6. Statement of significance:

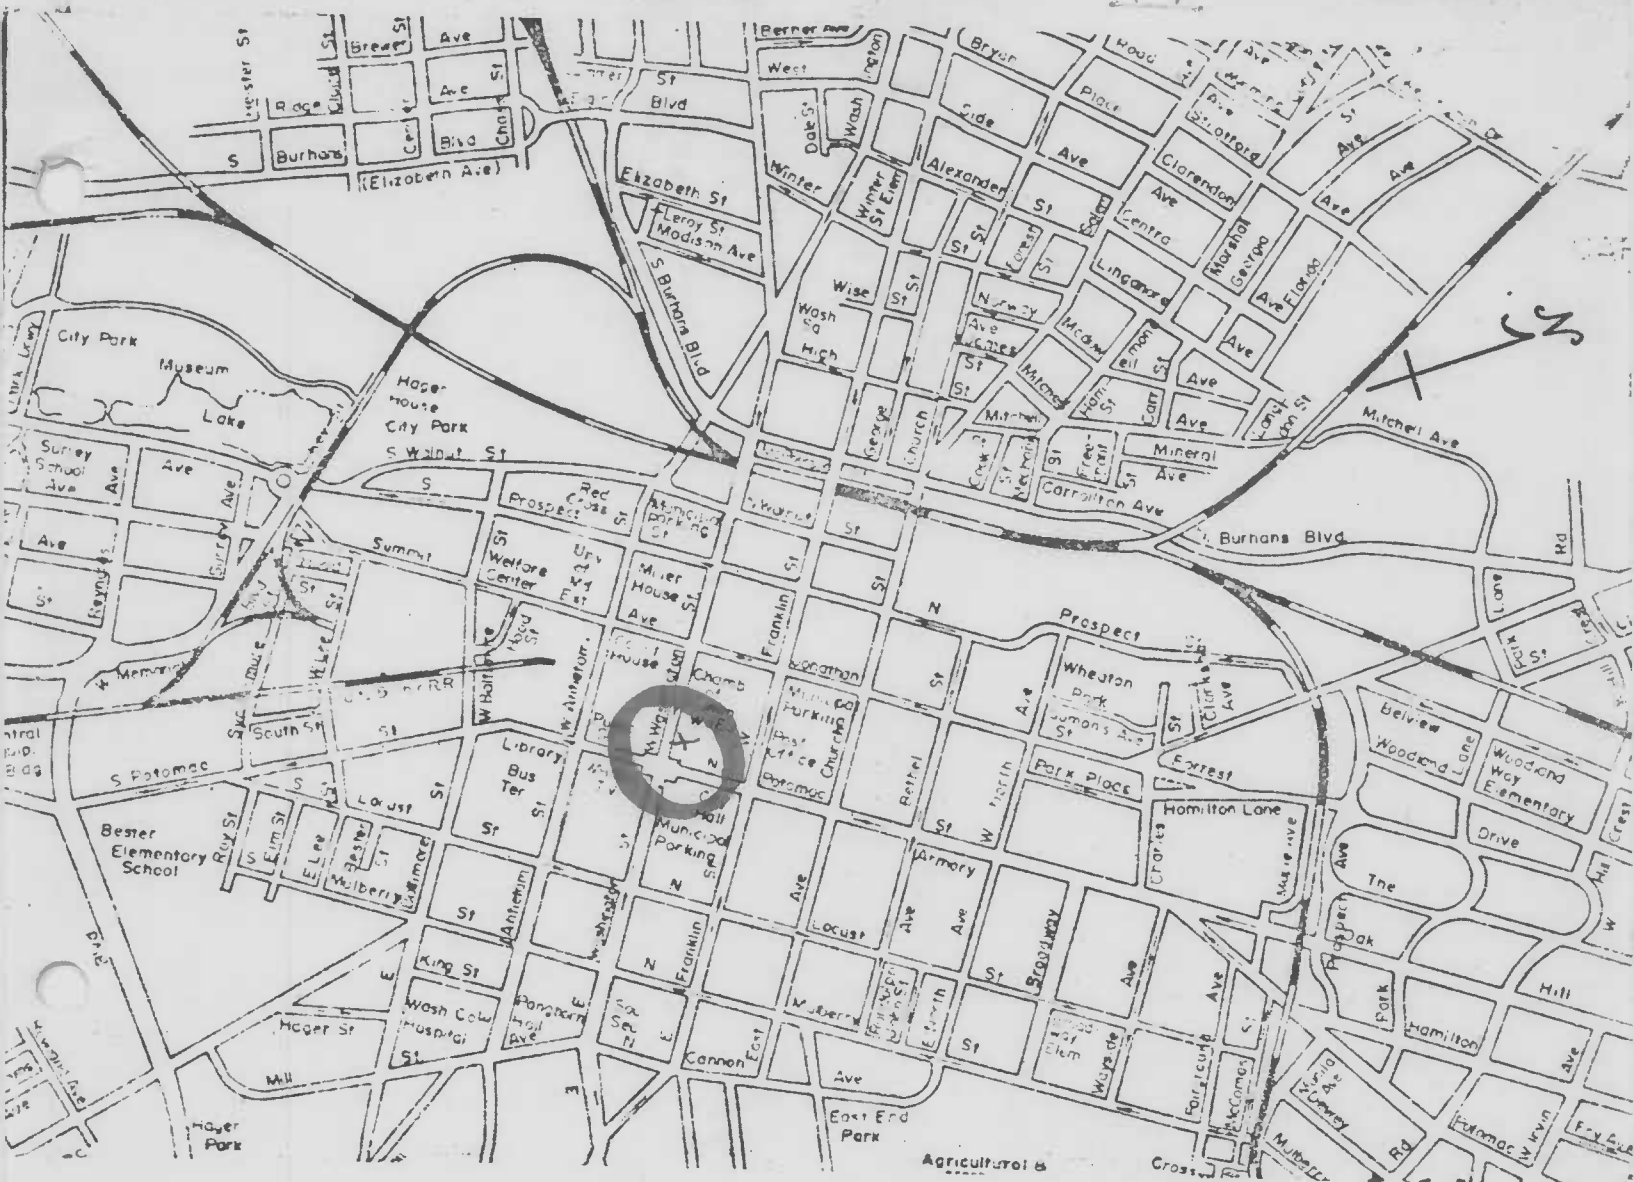

The Hays building is outstanding among Hagerstown's commercial structures in the downtown district because of its elaborate Beaux Arts facade. It exemplifies the economic boom that took place in Hagerstown in the late 19th and early 20th century. The facade of the 2nd and 3rd floor levels, the alley side and rear elevations of the building are all unmodified. Though the original store front was altered in the 1950's and rebuilt in 1984, the 1984 store front configuration resembles the original storefront.
